About KARCIEF

KTO Karatay University, named after the Karatay Madrasa founded in 1251, was founded in 2009 by the Konya Chamber of Commerce (KTO) the fifth largest Chamber of Commerce in Türkiye with 26,000 members.

KTO Karatay University located in Konya, Türkiye, pioneered introducing Islamic Economic and Finance education at the undergraduate level in 2016. In 2021 KTO Karatay University launched its annual Karatay International Conference on Islamic Economics and Finance (KARCIEF). KARCIEF aims to discuss the current issues in IEF by gathering the academicians and practitioners from all over the world and offer innovative solutions to existing problems.

From the beginning, agriculture is crucial part of human society due to the reality that man and agriculture are directly related to each other. This fact leads towards the advancement and enhancement of the typical, inappropriate and time-consuming methodologies, used for agriculture. The fast-moving world, new trends and technological advancement has changed the life style of people. Emerging new technologies are becoming an important part of routine. To meet the global population needs, it is projected at least eighty billion dollars in investment per year to support the food security until 2050. Arguably, the agriculture financing growth has stalled due to many reasons, while Islamic finance has the potential to spur the growth of agriculture financing to promote global food security.

On the other hand, agriculture in majority of Muslim countries is still nowhere to its potential. It is hindered by an inefficient and underdeveloped downstream segment, low access to financial and technology. This is a huge opportunity for Islamic finance in helping to bridge the gap through value chain financing approach as one of the strategies to reduce risk and provide socio-economic spill over effect along the chain. We believe that, Islamic finance could promote agricultures sustainability and a more efficient process with FinTech enabled platform.

Therefore, KARCIEF 2022 aims to bring the think tank in Islamic finance to address the above problem and create a platform which enables the innovative and creative solutions.
